American National Bank recognized for community involvement

American National Bank was nationally recognized for its contributions to the community at the American Banks Association National Conference for National Bankers in Hollywood, Fla. on Feb. 23, 2010.

The bank was awarded a Certificate of Recognition for the investments they have made and activities and their employee volunteerism. The award was given to the entire American National Bank team for the positive impact their programs have had on the community.

As a large, independent community bank, American National Bank has 15 banking centers covering the western Colorado region.
